F. H. DRIVE TOPS GOAL BY $2,795

Clean-up Campaign Sends Total Well Above $60,000 Sought.

The Friendly House campaign went over the top.

Paul W. Endriss, campaign chairman, announced today that $62,795 had been contributed with more likely to come.

Officially the campaign to raise $60,000 closed a week ago. It then was $2,500 short of success but the "clean-up" drive in the last seven days more than made up the deficit.

As a result of the successful completion of the drive, the Richland Foundation will furnish the balance of the money needed to carry out the proposed $235,000 construction program.

Included in Endriss' report today were contributions, some of them only partially reported from virtually every industry in Mansfield.

'Thank You Note.'

Endriss issued the following statement as a "thank you" note from the campaign committee and from Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gimbel, supervisors of Friendly House:

"The response that Mansfield has shown in the fund-raising campaign for Friendly House is indeed very gratifying and reveals that the worthiness of Friendly House as an important welfare center is fully recognized by persons in all walks of life.

"Since individual expressions of appreciation would be next to an impossibility because of the thousands who have aided the Friendly House cause, the campaign committee takes this means of making known its deep felt gratitude. It desires to thank the many individuals who contributed, downtown business establishments, professional groups, labor and management groups, church, social,

TIRE WORKERS READY CONTRACT

Mansfield Tire and Rubber company officials will be handed the union's contract late in February or early in March, Desmond Walker, president of Local 17, United Rubber Workers, said today. He added that the union will decide next week what demands for wage increases to make. Last fall, the union tentatively set 26 cents an hour as the increase to be sought.

The present contract, now under revision by union members, expires May 1. The new contract must be presented to the company for negotiations 60 days before the expiration date, Walker added.

"The wage demand has been given to the management, but we're waiting for the outcome of the 'big four' meeting in Cincinnati next week before we push the issue," Walker said.

Walker said he will leave Monday for the meeting among unions of Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Firestone tire companies. He commented that the wage increase demand will be industry-wide in the four plants and that the local demand may be pared in accordance with the agreement reached at the meeting.

Tax Payments Set Record For Richland

Richland county taxpayers are paying their first-half 1946 real estate taxes in unprecedented number for so early in the collection period, Charles C. Payne, county treasurer, reported today.

Payments checked yesterday totaled $27,292.50, Payne said, and at least 200 letters containing tax payment checks were being checked today with as many more expected before nightfall. Most of the payments were by mail.

Total collections to date amount to $159,000. The deadline for payment is Feb. 20.

JURY TO WIND UP ITS SESSION TODAY

With 13 more cases cleared from the docket yesterday the Richland county grand jury was expected to complete the remaining four cases and make a routine inspection of the county jail by mid-afternoon today, Prosecutor Theodore Lutz said.

The jurors opened the January term Monday morning and had considered nearly 30 cases this morning.

Kidnaper Foiled As Girl Breaks Bonds, Escapes

LODI, Calif.—(AP)—Kidnaped Alice Dean Devine, popular and pretty 17-year-old Lodi high school student, was back home and unharmed today after the most harrowing 26 hours of her life. Police authorities hunted over the entire west coast for a man who tried to collect $10,000 in ransom and gave up in fright.

The 165-pound girl athlete broke out of her bonds in a highway motel near Sacramento yesterday afternoon while the kidnaper was away and telephoned her location to relatives in Sacramento.

State police broadcast an all-points alarm for the arrest of a man they said had used the names of Everett Wescott Stiles of Portland, Ore., and William (Bill) Giles, identifying himself as an agent for an eastern publishing house.

ALICE DEVINE, 16-year-old high school student at Lodi, Cal., and daughter of a wealthy grape shipper, escaped after being abducted and held for ransom, according to authorities.—(International Soundphoto)

Alice Dean was held under police guard until last night while she and her father were stationed across the street from a Sacramento bar in a futile effort to capture her abductor. The kidnaper failed to appear at the bar to collect the ransom.

The father, John Edward Devine, wealthy Lodi grape grower and vice president of the American Fruit Growers association, had been told in a note the night before to be at the bar at 8 p. m. last night with $10,000 in $20 and $1,000 bills if he wished to see his daughter again.

Return Home.

After waiting nearly an hour beyond the ransom deadline, police and FBI agents decided the kidnaper had been frightened away by newspaper stories and the girl and her father were returned home in a state highway patrol automobile.

The girl was whisked into the back door of the Devine home just as her mother, Mrs. Margaret Devine, told a group of newspapermen she had heard nothing of her daughter's whereabouts.

Just then, Alice Dean's brother, Dalton, cried, "Oh, Mom, oh, Mom, she's here!"

Alice Dean, rushing into the house, threw herself into her mother's arms with a cry, "Oh, Mother," and then ran upstairs. She was disheveled but apparently unharmed.

The wanted man was described as about 42, 5 feet 8 inches, 165 to 170 pounds, dark brown hair, blue eyes, sharp features, and "apparently well educated."

Since Saturday the man had posed here as a feature writer in a nation-wide survey of high school life looking for the "typical American girl."

Alice Dean disappeared at 7:30 p. m. Monday after leaving a Lodi photographic studio where she had gone to have her picture taken for the purported features.

CITY ACCEPTS POWER BIDS ON 5-YEAR BASIS

Bids for a contract to supply Mansfield with electric power for the next five years will be opened Friday, Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said today.

The contract is to be for a period five years shorter than the present contract and is to be for power other than that used for street lighting. The power will be used mainly to operate water pumps.

Annually, Mansfield pays about $50,000 to the Ohio Public Service company for this power.

Enlow said that as of today the Ohio Public Service company has submitted the only bid. The city at present has a 10-year contract with OPS which expires in March.

Enlow said that because bids are sealed he won't be able to tell until Friday whether the city has been offered an improved power rate by the OPS.

Enlow had previously declared that the city would attempt to negotiate a "better rate." He pointed out today that the city can reject any bid.

A member of city council's utilities committee, Nelson Swihart, said the committee has not met with the OPS to discuss the proposed new power contract.

Last year the committee negotiated domestic and street lighting contracts with the OPS which are expected to result in savings of $35,000 annually for domestic users and free street lighting for the city up to $35,000 a year.

STEEL PROFITS HIGH, SAYS CIO

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The CIO was set today to throw into the steel wage negotiations a profits survey claiming the steel industry can afford to grant large new benefits to its 1,000,000 workers.

The survey, it was learned, was prepared by former government economist Robert Nathan for CIO President Philip Murray, who also is president of the CIO steelworkers. In a previous report for the CIO, Nathan stirred up a controversy by claiming that industry in general could afford 25 per cent pay boosts without raising prices.

The new report was said to claim that the steel industry's profits were large enough to absorb another round of wage increases and to provide health and welfare benefits as well.

The survey will be used in the union's closed bargaining sessions, already underway with a few companies and scheduled to begin Friday in Pittsburgh with U. S. Steel corporation.

School Principal Turns Coal Miner

BECKLEY, W. Va. — (AP) — Erskine Richmond, school principal recently suspended for digging coal on the side, joined the miners' ranks on a full-time basis today, explaining:

"I can make almost twice as much money mining coal as teaching school."

FIRE GUTS CRESTLINE FACTORY — Only these smoking ruins and razed walls remained today of the Crestline Garment company factory. (News-Journal staff photo by George Petrovic)

Two Injured Fighting $60,000 Crestline Fire

CRESTLINE—Two men were injured, neither seriously, while fighting a $60,000 fire which gutted the Crestline Garment company factory last night.

The fire, discovered at 7:30 p. m., was fought by the Crestline fire department and volunteer firemen until 3 a. m. today. Firemen were handicapped by extreme cold and winds.

Frank Garverick, a volunteer fireman, slipped and fell while holding an ice-covered fire hose.

David Corbin, Crestline night patrolman, was struck by falling bricks when a portion of a wall collapsed. Both men were taken to Crestline Emergency hospital, where their condition today was described as "good."

The fire was discovered by Russell Quail, who lives near the factory on North Washington avenue. He said flames were pouring out of the basement.

The blaze was out of control within a few minutes. By 3 a. m. only the brick walls remained of the L-shaped building. Ruins still smouldered throughout the morning.

All members of the fire department were called out. A Galion fire truck was rushed here to protect the city while the Crestline firemen threw their full strength into fighting the factory blaze.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Shortly after firemen arrived, the boiler exploded. Firemen said, however, that the boiler was located at the opposite end of the building from where the fire started.

Max Schaechter, manager of the garment factory, said losses were covered by insurance. He valued the building at $12,000, and contents at $48,000.

The factory manufactured women's coats. Its production of spring coats just was getting under way, Schaechter said. The factory, operated by Printz-Biederman company, of Cleveland, employed 60 persons.

Schaechter said plans for rebuilding already were being drawn up, and a new location in Crestline was being considered.

He said the company hoped to resume operations within 60 days, if new machinery can be located. A number of special garment machines were destroyed in the fire.

Meanwhile, Schaechter said, all 60 employes would be offered temporary employment in factories operated by Printz-Biederman in Cleveland and Lorain.

The destroyed building was constructed by the Bell Telephone company many years ago. The garment factory had occupied the building for four years.

POLES, SLAVS ASK PAYMENTS BY AXIS FOES

LONDON — (AP) — Poland and Yugoslavia demanded huge settlements of land and money from war-flattened Germany and Austria today.

Memoranda were prepared by the two Slavic bloc states for consideration by deputies of the four-power foreign ministers council drafting separate German and Austrian treaties.

Poland asked for a new German frontier running from west of Schweinemunde on the Baltic down the west banks of the Oder and Neisse rivers to Czechoslovakia.

Yugoslavia demanded sufficient reparations from Austria to settle war damages estimated at more than $11,000,000,000.

Yugoslav claims to more than 1,000 square miles of Austrian territory were registered previously before the deputies of the four-power foreign ministers conferring here upon German and Austrian peace treaties.

The exact amount of Austrian reparations sought was not precisely stated, but a long memorandum presented to the deputies detailed vast war damages for which the Yugoslavs said they were entitled to compensation.

Poland is now administering under the provisional Potsdam agreement former German territory bounded by a line from Stettin on the Baltic down the east banks of the Oder and Neisse to Chechoslovakia.

Lists Demands.

In addition to the enlarged territorial demand, the Polish memorandum said the Moscow-backed republic wanted restitution of property seized by the Nazis from Polish nations in Germany and Austria.

It included demands for:

Complete democratization of Germany and Austria.

Prohibition of all irredentist movements and organizations inside the two countries.

Extradition of war criminals of all nationalities who collaborated with the Axis either in Germany or Austria.

Effective continuance of the current denazification program.

HAWLEY NAMED TO LIQUOR JOB

Harry E Hawley, former Mansfield postmaster, yesterday began work in the state liquor department at Columbus as administrative assistant in charge of store leases, Stanley B. Cofall, state liquor director told the News-Journal.

Hawley, who is 60, will receive a basic salary of $375 a month.

Hawley, prominent in Richland county Republican circles for many years, only recently resigned as clerk of the Richland county election board.

Ha also served as a member and as chaiman in 1941-42 of the state liquor control board following an appointment made during the Bricker administration.

He was supervisor of state liquor stores in 1939-41.

The Richland countian served as postmaster of Mansfield from 1925 to 1934 under an appointment by President Coolidge. He resigned from this post two weeks before his term ended to accept an appointment as a traveling auditor under former state auditor, Joseph Tracy.

Hawley resides on a farm north of Mansfield.

Legal Snarls Looming for Leo and Bride

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— Laraine Day and Leo "the Lip" Durocher, a pair of shy newlyweds, were living in individual bliss today, their honeymoon cooled by legal hot water.

Durocher sat alone at his seaside hotel, looking more unhappy than if his Brooklyn Dodgers had lost a major ball game.

Nearby at her home Miss Day, who amazed Hollywood by marrying the baseball manager in El Paso, Tex., yesterday after getting a quick Mexican re-take on her semi-final California divorce from airport executive Ray Hendricks.

Both had a tentative date later today to explain to a Los Angeles judge how they happened to elope when the actress' divorce doesn't become final for a year.

"Miss Day is liable to prosecutio non bigamy charges," warned Superior Judge George Dockweiler.

Appeal To 'Save Gas' Is Issued

An appeal for public cooperation in conservation of gas was issued today by G. K. Schooler, district manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company. He said:

"The sudden cold wave in Ohio, along with the untimely failure of the 'Big Inch' line, has resulted in an acute shortage of gas.

"The gas company has depended heavily on the additional gas being delivered into this area through the temporary use of the 'Big Inch' gas line. With the sudden failure of that line yesterday just as the temperature nose-dived, the situation has become serious.

"It was believed at first that there had been a break in the 'Big Inch,' but it was determined late Tuesday that the line was frozen in Arkansas. Work of thawing it out was started immediately, but additional trouble developed when there was a break in the line in Texas, feeding gas from the wells into the 'Big Inch.'

"We are asking the people not to use gas unnecessarily, to keep as low a temperature as possible in the home, that radiant heaters not be used throughout the night, and that gas ranges not be used for heating."

ASSEMBLY GETS 2 ANTI-CLOSED SHOP PROPOSALS

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio representatives were a "country mile" ahead of senators today in a race to make new laws.

Two plans to outlaw the closed shop in Ohio industry were among 63 proposals rushed into the house on its opening day for new measures.

Others proposed three new bonus programs, and other aids to veterans, repeal of portions of the sales tax, lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 years, making bribery of athletes a penitentiary offense, and to boost local government allotments from $21,000,000 to $36,000,000 annually for 1947 and 1948.

Three other measures would supersede the one-cent liquid fuel tax with an extra cent levy on gasoline for highway uses, bringing total taxes for that purpose to four cents.

Two bills would require payment of all receipts from public school athletic events into rotary funds subject to state audit.

Senate Slower.

The senate began the legislative race last week but got in only 35 new bills, seven of them yesterday.

They included measures to regulate strip,mining, eliminate the possibility of separate candidates for full and "short term" U. S. senator, and appropriate $476,000 for a new state receiving hospital in northwestern Ohio.

Rep. Charles H. Veach (R-Putnam) offered the anti-closed shop proposals. One was a bill requiring only legislative action. The other called for voters to approve a change in the state constitution.

The three house bonus proposals called for payment of from $300,000,000 to $600,000,000, subject to approval of voters at the polls.

They were offered by Reps. A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont), B. F. Turner (R-Meigs), and the Republican Stark county delegation.

They were in addition to three senate bonus plans ranging from $325,000,000 to $500,000,000 on which committee hearings will begin next Tuesday.

Four bills to remove the sales tax from food consumed in restaurants were offered. Two of them also would exempt medicines and another would include in addition, removal of the tax from coal and clothing.

Rep. Anna F. O'Neil (D-Summit) proposed in her sales tax bill to exempt all sales of less than 30 cents. The present exemption starts on sales under ten cents. The measure also would boost local government allocations from sales taxes from the present $21,000,000 annually to $31,000,000.

MARSHALL SETTLES DOWN AS CIVILIAN

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Secretary of State George C. Marshall, doffing his five-star general's uniform for a pin-stripe suit, today settled down to work as a civilian in the toughest assignment President Truman has to offer.

Marshall took over his office in a brief but newsy day Tuesday. He arrived early in the morning, issued a brisk statement divorcing himself from political ambitions in 1948, then was sworn into his new post.

WESTINGHOUSE PLANT HIT BY GAS SHORTAGE

Galion Man Freezes to Death as Mercury Drops to Zero In City Area.

The winter's most severe cold wave which dropped the mercury to zero in Mansfield this morning idled 1,700 production workers at the Westinghouse plant and took the life of a Galion man.

The weatherman said the cold would begin to ease tonight, and tomorrow will see a gradual rise in temperature.

Production at Westinghouse was curtailed last night because of a critical natural gas shortage caused by a break in the "big inch" pipe line, bringing gas from Arkansas and Texas. The workers will be idle until Friday, company spokesmen said.

In Galion, Ezra A Stroup, 36, a taxi office employe whose body was found last night in a ditch, froze to death after he accidentally tripped and fell, Coroner O. R. Kackley said. His death was the only one reported in Ohio from exposure as the severe cold spread over the state.

* * *

Children Find Body.

Galion police said the body was discovered by the children of Delbert J. Somerlot who notified officers. Police said that Stroup was last seen in the vicinity around 6:30 p. m. Monday when he alighted from a taxi. He was employed in the office of the Service Taxi company of Galion.

Born in Marion, Sept. 2, 1910, Stroup is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lydia Stroup; four sisters, Mrs. Clyde W. Kelly, Mrs. Charles Lepper, Mrs. Fred Glaze, all of Galion, and by Mrs. Merle Hoffman of Leesville; and three brothers, Floyd and Clark, both of Galion, and Alonzo Stroup of Crestline.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Volk funeral home, Galion, by Rev. C. V. Roop of the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

The Westinghouse plant was the hardest hit of Mansfield industries. The Empire Steel corporation, largest industrial consumer of natural gas in the city, converted to fuel oil equipment to keep the open hearth, bar mill and sheet mills running, J. B. Montgomery, president, said. Also converted to use of fuel oil was the Tappan Stove company. Ohio Brass officials said use of natural gas was "severely curtailed."

Montgomery added that No. 7 sheet mill at the Empire was idled yesterday, but that it produces only 10 per cent of the sheet steel for the factory. The normalizer was also reported down and Montgomery said that the annealing department is rapidly reducing its output and that several days of continued cold weather will close it entirely.

* * *

Plan to Open Friday.

Company spokesmen for the Westinghouse said today that normal operations will be resumed as soon as notification is received from the Ohio Fuel Gas company that the supply of natural gas is available. Spokesmen said that production will probably resume Friday, when the gas restriction is expected to be lifted by the gas company.

"Stand-by" facilities for such emergencies, costing $50,000 are now being installed at the plant to avoid future shutdowns, spokesmen added.

Departments in which production was curtailed at Westinghouse were ranges, refrigerators, laundromats, wire goods and Corox heating elements for ranges, as well as the fabrication and enameling work in the XYZ buildings, and box shop.

The Ohio Fuel Gas company said the gas supply to industries would be restored just as soon as the cold eases and more fuel is available.

Mansfield was among the coldest spots in the state last night and today. A noon high of eight above in the city brought predictions from observers that it wouldn't be "quite so cold" tonight.

Even Cincinnati, "warmest" city in Ohio, had a reading of eight above this morning. All readings were below 10 degrees in the state.

PROCLAIMS INDEPENDENCE

LONDON —(INS)— The Indian constituent assembly, meeting in New Delhi, agreed unanimously today to proclaim an "independent sovereign republic of India."

New TB Commission Starts From Scratch Because County Acted Without Authority

The new Richland county TB building commission, meeting in an organization session last night, learned that the county's plans for a new tuberculosis sanatorium were prepared without authority and it will be necessary to hire an architect and start all over again.

Dr. John S. Hattery of Mansfield was elected chairman of the commission at a meeting in the courthouse. The four-member commission was appointed recently by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch to serve with the county commissioners in supervising construction of a sanatorium.

When the Ohio law was quoted to show that the county commissioners were without authority when they employed Herbert S. Jones to prepare plans for the building, the commission decided to meet again next week to employ an architect and ask for contractors' bids.

JONES SAID he had never been paid for his work in preparing sketches for the building. He is expected to get the job—officially this time—of preparing the plans for the new building to go up on State Route 39 southeast of Mansfield.

It was pointed out last night that, under the Ohio law, county commissioners could legally ask an architect to prepare sketches and a cost estimate before the bond issue was voted, but after the program was approved by voters, the construction plans should have been taken over by a building commission.

* * *

JONES TOLD the commission that building prospects are still dark and he doubted that contractors will bid on the project within the next 60 or 90 days. He said he had sent inquiries to 32 contractors in the past two weeks and none of them considered it practical to submit lump-sum bids now.

Plumbing, heating and electrical contractors, however, indicated they would be interested in submitting a bid on these facilities if advertised, Jones said.

* * *

VOTERS APPROVED a $300,000 bond issue for the sanatorium in November, 1945, but sharp increases in building costs since then have brought revised estimates of the cost which have run as high as $400,000.

Groups in Richland and nearby counties have recommended a tri-county sanatorium as a more efficient and economical way of handling TB cases in this area.

* * *

ATTY. JOHN C. O'DONNELL, a member of the commission, reading from the Ohio General Code, pointed out that the law requires the county auditor keep an accurate record of all proceedings of the commission for the commissioners' journal.

Members of T. B Building commission in addition to Dr. Hattery and O'Donnell, are Dr. Paul A. Stoodt and Charles J. Stecker.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Cases Have Similarity

NEW YORK—Attorney General Tom Clark has emphatically impugned the administration of Edgar H. Rossbach, the United States attorney, in Newark, N. J., who last week lost an income tax fraud case against Joe Fay, a notorious crook and a mighty man in the Frank Hague political organization, of which Rossbach is a member.

Clark said this defeat was a "—— damned outrage" and ordered an investigation of Rossbach's office.

The same office lost a black-market case in October, 1945, against another blackmailing union racketeer, as evil as Fay himself, after a trial before the same federal judge who heard the Fay case, Thomas F. Meaney, also a Hague man in politics. The defendant in that one was Benjamin Pross, of New York, who operates a local union of the wine, liquor and distillery workers' union. He is a thief who worked in bankruptcy frauds before he turned to the union racket and had been convicted of three offenses.

In the black market job it was shown that Pross compelled the Schenley Distillers corporation to allot to a New York wholesale liquor firm 10,500 cases of whiskey above its rationed quota by threatening to strike the Schenley plants. His pretext was that 106 employees of a small plant which Schenley had bought and was closing down must have work and that the handling of this liquor would provide employment for them. Actually, 10,500 cases would provide only a trifling spell of employment for only a few men and there was no record showing that more than five workers ever got jobs out of the deal. These five did not appear to be men displaced by the abandonment of the old, small plant and the length of their employment was not clearly shown. Moreover, Pross did not report this deal to his union.

AT THAT TIME, in the summer of 1943, the liquor industry was running whiskey to its dealers and the black market was very active. The treasury showed that the excess allotment went into the black market in the neighborhoods of army training camps in Georgia, Texas, Louisiana and other southern states. America soldiers paid as much as $25 a bottle at retail and the excess price, by the case, to the southern wholesale black market dealers ranged from $4 to $17.

Because he was a criminal with an unusually nasty record, Pross was afraid to take the witness stand in the federal court in Newark He may have been hypersensitive in this. Fay, too, has a record extending back about 25 years, but he took the stand in his defense before Mr. Rossbach and was treated with admirable courtesy.

In fact, Mr. Rossbach conducted his cross-examination from a sitting position and did not embarrass the hoodlum politician with a number of searching questions which might have given a fair jury a very unfavorable impression of him. However, the Pross case was conducted by Charles J. Stanziale, an assistant to Mr. Rossbach, and it is easily possible that he would have gone after Pross much more aggressively.

Mr. Stanziale said he prosecuted the black market case with the utmost vigor and could not understand how the jury could acquit Pross and still convict two minor accomplices. All ended well for the accomplices, however, for the august and honorable Judge Meaney set aside their convictions on the ground that when the jury acquitted Pross the trunk of the conspiracy was cut. I thought it passing strange when I interviewed Mr. Stanziale last Fall that he couldn't let me see the record and said the boss, Mr. Rossbach might not thank him for discussing the case with me.

Lions Create Problem

WASHINGTON—(CP)—When is a mountain lion a varmint to be shot and when is it (the same lion with the same long claws) a pussy cat to be petted? Hey, Mr. Krug?

Out where men are men and lions change their official spots when they leap across imaginary lines this question is driving lion hunters to strong drink. It is serious. Sen. Dennis Chavez of the New Mexican lion or pussy cat country, has appealed to congress (poor, bedeviled congress) for an answer.

As he explained the problem, in words only remotely similar to mine, you've got to picture yourself in New Mexico with a shotgun on your shoulder, trudging through the mountains, hunting lions.

The good old department of interior eggs you on. Pats your shoulder. Lends you a shotgun shell and maybe even offers you a bounty if you bag one. You are a public benefactor. You are eliminating pests that prey on livestock.

So you spot a lion. The lion spots you. He takes off by leaps and bounds. You leap and bound behind him. The chase is getting hot when the lion reaches a spot, known only to himself and the interior department. He stops.

* * *

HE SITS on his haunches, bares his teeth in a leonine grin, and thumbs his nose. He has crossed the imaginary line. He is now a pussy cat to be protected by all the pow of the federal government.

Shoot him and the interior department which was cheering you on five minutes before, grabs you by the collar and tosses you in the clink for murdering a poor defenseless kitty.

"This," said Sen. Chavez in one of the truly great understatements of the 80th congress, "is peculiar."

He said he could not explain it. All he knew was that the interior department of Secretary Julius Krug tries to get rid of predatory animals, except when same enter Indian territory. Here they are regarded as wild life and must not be harmed.

How this subject came up before the senatorial civil service committee, which was trying to decide how many federal clerks to fire in the interests of economy, I still don't understand. Chairman William Langer of N. D., and Co., were talking about government employes in bulk and then, suddenly, about lions.

Burglars last night broke into the Cozy Inn, 54 West Fourth street, stealing $300 in cash, $42.50 in checks and three cartons of cigarets, police reported.

Andy Kalas, co-owner, told police $30 was taken from the cash register, and the balance was in a steel cash box which the burglars stole

Police said entry was made by removing a screen from a window and prying the window open

Police also reported the Mansfield bakery on North Main street was broken into early yesterday, but nothing was taken.

Seal Collection Deadline Changed

Deadline for collection of Christmas seal sale funds has been advanced to Feb. 15, which may enable Richland county to win a $1,000 bonus if its $12,500 goal is reached.

Mrs. Margaret Adams, executive secretary of the county tuberculosis association, said that $11,079 has been contributed toward the goal.

BOARD PONDERS TRAILER SITES

County commissioners today were accepting applications from veterans for occupancy of 20 new aluminum house trailers and were exploring possibilities of locating the trailers on sites provided by veterans.

C. L. Shoup, county commission chairman, said all applicants are being asked whether they can provide their own site for a trailer. If enough veterans indicate they can furnish the commissioners with a lease at the rate of $1 per year and their own utilities such a plan might be more favorably considered by the board than locating a number of the trailers at one place, Shoup said.

Applications for occupancy of the trailers are being honored "first come, first served," and to date six married veterans and several veterans who want to get married have filed.

Although no decision has been reached yet on rent rates, the board is considering a top figure of $15 per month.

Delivery of 19 other trailers—one is already on the courthouse lawn—is expected between Feb. 1 and 15, Shoup said.

Col. Raymond In Hospital

Lt. Col. S. H. Raymond, commanding officer of the 831st AAF Specialized depot at Shelby, left yesterday for Wright Field, Dayton, where he will be assigned for hospitalization. Col. Raymond will undergo an operation on his right arm for an injury received in service in Italy during a bomb raid.

Assigned overseas early in the war, Col. Raymond was stationed at Bizerte. His major duty was setting up maintenance and supply depots in North Africa for repairing and maintaining the B-24 bombers.

Moving into the Italian theater, he was stationed last in Bari. He was there during the heaviest air raids on the town. He lost all his gear and equipment when the hotel in which he was living was destroyed during the heaviest raid. In an air raid on Bari, Col. Raymond suffered injuries requiring hospitalization. He was returned to this country on the navy ship, USS Refuge, on her maiden voyage as a hospital ship.

Col. Raymond was first assigned to the Shelby depot in November, 1944, as assistant commanding officer. He assumed command in April, 1945.

Paul Angle Edits New Book Of Stories, Works of Lincoln

Paul M. Angle, former Mansfielder and son of Mrs. John E Angle, 150 Home avenue, is the editor of a new book on Abraham Lincoln, "The Lincoln Reader," which will be on Mansfield book shelves next month.

Angle, now secretary and director of the Chicago Historical society, has compiled the best of Lincolniana in a volume that tells the story of different periods of the life of the Great Emancipator. He has written the preface for the volume as well as compiled and edited it.

"The Lincoln Reader" has been selected by the Book of the Month club for February distribution.

Like all scholars of imagination, Angle combines a keen eye for detail with a natural flair for writing.

Besides compiling a previous volume called "New Letters and Papers," he has given countless talks on Lincoln throughout the U. S. He is recognized by such writers as Carl Sandburg and Ida Tarbell as the greatest living authority on Lincolniana.

Henry Seidel Canby, the critic, calls Angle's new volume a "short cut to all Lincoln literature—a kind of Lincoln digest . . . it is a history of a man in which 60 who knew him or understood him best take part, and all organized into a flowing, continuous story."

Angle will be in New York City as the guest of the Rutgers Publishing company, publishers of the new book, Friday night. Monday night he was the company's guest at a party in his honor in Philadelphia. On Feb. 12, according to Mrs. Angle, the former Mansfield man will appear on a special program called "Author Meets Critic" and there are tentative plans for him to appear on "Information Please" early next month.

LUFT RELATES EXCHANGE STORY

The origins, history, functions and services of the New York Stock Exchange were explained to Co-operative club members last night in the Mansfield-Leland hotel by C. C. Luft of Vercoe and company.

Luft traced the history of the exchange from its origin in 1896, with about 25 members, to its present status as "the supreme single expression of modern economic life," with 1,375 members.

Pointing to the speed with which modern sales are transacted, Luft recounted that four tickers in the exchange, which produce 580 characters per minute, give immediate publicity all over the nation as to what is happening on the exchange floor.

Luft pointed out that there is a popular misconception of the exchange which has it that the exchange buys and sells securities and that it makes profits and governs the market.

"This is not so," Luft said. "The New York Stock Exchange is simply a market place where transactions are carried on. It doesn't set prices and is not responsible for booms and depressions."

There are approximately 20,000,000 persons in the United States who own securities directly and many more who own securities indirectly through savings deposits and insurance, Luft said.

R. Earl Brandenberg was program chairman.

Turner, assistant to Floyd Dent, Scout executive, is holder of two personal citations from Admiral Halsey, and the Air Medal, among other decorations.

Up and Down The Street

CHILLY TRIP—

"Brrrrrr." . . . That's what C. A Sullivan, of the Mansfield Veterans' Administration office was still saying this morning as he stood by the radiator in his office. He was trying to thaw out after a harrowing experience when the fuel pump on his car froze up while he was driving to Marion last night.

"It happened right at the top of a windy hill," Sullivan related. Then he recounted how the cars rolled by until rescue, in the form of a tow to a garage, arrived. Sullivan said he doesn't think he'll ever join an arctic expedition.

IMAGINATION—

Al Strachan, city superintendent of sanitation, tells this one on himself. It concerns trials and tribulations with a newly purchased electric blanket. "Not that I have anything against electric blankets; they work fine," Strachan said. "But," he continued, "the other night I awakened because I was too warm; at least I THOUGHT I was. So I reached out from under the blanket and turned down the heat control. I was comfortable then and slept the night through." Hopping out of bed refreshed the following morning, Strachan happened to examine the blanket's electrical connection. "The darned thing wasn't plugged in," he reports. "It just goes to prove the power of psychology!"

NO TAKERS—

Six months ago it might have been different, but this morning there were no small, eager hands to recover pieces of ice from a large block that slipped off a delivery truck at Fourth and Walnut streets. Passers-by merely glanced at the ice, pulled their coat collars together and thought, "we sure don't need any of that this morning."

Clinic Plans Drive to Make Pupils 'Teeth Conscious'

A campaign to make parents of Mansfield school children "teeth conscious" is being mapped by the Mansfield Dental Clinic association, Miss Dorothy L. Landers, president, said today.

It's designed to improve the care and condition of children's teeth, she said, by informing parents what constitutes good teeth health.

Already under way in Mansfield schools is a teeth examination program scheduled to include every student, Miss Landers said.

The dental clinic is a Community Chest group. It was organized in 1939. Annually, some 35 dentists contribute time to the program, objective of which is to improve the dental health of indigent children.

This year, Miss Landers said, the clinic is planning to step up the tempo of its activities. Last year some 500 children were examined and given dental care, she said.

The dental association maintains a fully equipped office at the city health department. Examinations are held Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 9 a. m., to noon.

The "good teeth" educational program is to be launched early in February following a meeting with health officials and officers of various Parent-Teacher associations, Miss Landers said.

Officers of the dental association, in addition to Miss Landers, are Mrs. Robert W. Stevens, vice-president; Mrs. W. W. Willis, secretary; Mrs. C. D. Heaton, treasurer, and Mrs. J. O. Hanley, clinic chairman.

The requisites are:

1, modern physical plant, assuring the patient safety, comfort and efficient care; 2, clearly defined organization, duties, responsibilities and relations; 3, carefully selected governing board with complete and supreme authority; 4, competent, well-trained superintendent responsible to the governing board; 5, adequate and efficient personnel, properly organized and competently supervised;

Samaritan hospital in Ashland was given provisional approval, which signifies that the hospital is trying to meet the requirements of the college but for acceptable reasons has not been able to do so in every detail or was not at the time of the survey complying sufficiently to merit full approval, the report said.

FINAL PERIOD RALLY MAKES WIN MARGIN

Chuck Sisco Gets 10; Tyger Sophs Triumph.

FREMONT — Mansfield Senior high's basketballers faded in the last quarter to drop a 37 to 31 decision to a surprising gang of Fremont Ross sharpshooters here last night.

It was the third straight victory for the men of Ross and the termination of a three-game Tyger victory streak. The Bengals defeated New Philadelphia, Springfield and Tiffin Columbian in the string.

The Tyger sophomores gained some prestige by upsetting the Ross reserves 21 to 19 in the preliminary contest. Norbert Shibinsky led the Bengal cubs with 11 markers.

Inability to make their shots good in the closing minutes cost the Tyger varsity the decision last night. The Bengals got plenty of openings at the bucket in the fourth quarter but Chuck Sisco's two connections were the only ones marked up on the Mansfield side of the ledger.

Fremont rammed home 10 points in the final heat.

Mansfield led by two points at three different stages in the first quarter but Fremont led at all of the intermission points, 7 to 6, 19 to 17, and 27 to 26. The Tygers were in front momentarily in the third quarter when Nick Gagich and Ollie Cline hit successive fielders to make the score 26 to 25.

Van Hoffman's lads tied the score twice in the early stages of the fourth stanza but Ross ran up seven straight points to clinch the result.

Sisco topped the Bengal scorers with 10 points while Dick Baron, Rostace, piled in 14. He got 13 in the first half but was held scoreless from the court in the second half when the cool Cline took over on the defense.

Mansfield plays Warren Harding at the Senior high school gym Friday night. John Simpson junior high meets the Tyger sophomore in the preliminary fracas at 7 o'clock.

Indians Need Swat Power

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Cleveland Indians, with Bob Feller safely in the Tribal fold, turned today to developing a couple of sluggers for American league baseball action.

Pat Seerey, hard-hitting outfielder who led the league in striking out last season, was scheduled to leave for the Indians' Tucson, Ariz., training camp today where he will receive special pre-season batting instructions from Rogers Hornsby.

Seerey, and Don Ross, last year's substitute third-sacker, turned in their signed contracts yesterday to raise to 20 the number of Cleveland players already under terms.

Feller's signing, however, was the big news in the Cleveland camp yesterday. The major leagues' top pitcher agreed to terms which will net him a record baseball salary of over $80,000, the mark set by New York's Babe Ruth in 1930-31.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Four baseball greats, Pitchers Carl Hubbell and Robert (Lefty) Grove, Infielder Frankie Frisch and Catcher Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane today joined 49 other immortals of the diamond in the nation pastime's Hall of Fame.

The quartet was elected to the Cooperstown, N. Y., shrine by the Baseball Writers of America in a poll completed Jan. 15.

It was the first time since 1942, when Rogers Hornsby, who led the National league in batting in seven seasons, was named that any player received 75 per cent of the votes required for election.

The election, results of which were announced last night, was the first under the new rules which restricted the balloting privileges to writers of at least ten years' membership in the association and which also confined the field to players of the era since 1921. No player active in organized baseball on the field in 1946 was eligible.

Hubbell, famous "meal ticket" of the New York Giants, who won 253 games during his momentous career, drew 140 of the 161 votes cast to head the list.

Frisch, the "Fordham Flash" of the Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, was second with 136 votes.

Trailing Frisch with 128 votes was Cochrane, one-time catching great of the Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers.

Grove, Cochrane's one time battery mate on the Athletics, followed with 123 votes. The former southpaw speedball ace who closed out his career with the Boston Red Sox, won 300 games during his stay in the major leagues.

Harold (Pie) Traynor, outstanding third baseman and former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, missed being selected by two votes, polling 119.

The four plaques of the newcomers will be hung alongside their 49 predecessors.

All told, 39 players appeared on the ballots with Charley Gehringer, Detroit's stellar second baseman, the only other player to draw more than 100 votes. The one time "mechanical marvel" of the Tiger infield polled 105.

Butler Captures Tenth Richland County Clash

Butler's Bulldogs captured their 10th Richland county cage tilt at the expense of Shiloh, 66 to 22 last night.

Coach Ed Wysocki's Bulldogs jumped off to a first quarter 24 to 2 lead. Estly Maglott tallied nine field goals and one foul shot for 19 points while Sam Roberts added 16 to the Butler score.

Still smarting from the 32 to 31 loss at the hands of Union, Lucas upset the county dope bucket in turning back Bellville, 40-26.

Lucas' Don Stake split the nets for seven fielders and four charity tosses to lead the winners with 18 points. Don Walker led the Bellville team with eight tallies.

Coach W. S. Barger's Lucas team trailed 9 to 2 at the end of the first period and 15 to 14 at the half. Lucas led 25 to 21 at the beginning of the fourth period.

Coach John Rees' Lexington combine rolled over Plymouth 49 to 36. Rollin Ford, Lexington forward, added 18 points to his individual scoring lead. Ford has 133 points in nine games.

Plymouth's Bob Hampton scored five baskets the first half but the Lexington defense tightened and held Hampton to one gift shot the second half.

Dave Sunnucks greased the nets for 15 markers as Ontario clipped Union 40 to 30. LeRoy Dill flipped in 10 points for the losers.

Coach Dick Casad's Ontario five grabbed a first quarter 7 to 4 lead and were never threatened after that point.

Benefit Pro Fight Show In the Making

Plans are being made for a benefit professional fight card Thursday, Feb. 6, in the Mansfield Armory.

Proceeds of the fights will be turned over to Roger Rucker, Mansfield light-heavyweight, who suffered a fractured jaw at the hands of Canton's Jimmy Davis here two weeks ago. It was Rucker's first pro battle.

Bartender's local 270 are sponsoring the show with Vern Miller and Howard Aston in charge of arrangements. Rex Reese and Sam Miller, Mansfield pro fight promoters, will serve as matchmakers.

Park Avenue Baptist continued atop the YMCA Senior Church league standings by swamping Mayflower Congregational, 63 to 15, last night on the "Y" court.

Beasore and Charles Burton combined to splash 49 points through the hoop as the Baptists won their fifth game in six starts.

Buddy Young Ready To Join Gridiron Play for Pay Ranks

CHICAGO —(AP)— Buddy Young was ready to go to work today for cash—when and if he gets any pro football offers.

The 5 foot 4 inch University of Illinois athletic star said he had decided to withdraw from school for financial reasons, adding that "my first responsibility is to my wife and 18-months-old son—and right now I am broke. I am open to all offers to play pro ball."

Young was scheduled to leave Chicago by plane tonight for Los Angeles to participate in a college all star-professional game there Sunday—a step that would automatically conclude his eligibility in the Western conference.

Young, who left the Illinois campus last Thursday and received automatic flunks in examinations when he failed to report Monday and yesterday, also will forfeit his chances of competing for the United States in the 1948 Olympics in London should he play Sunday.

The 21-year-old Negro athlete is one of the country's outstanding collegiate sprinters, having been clocked in the 100-yard dash in :09.5.

Admitting that he would be receptive to any offer to play pro football next season, Young dispelled rumors that he had already signed a $20,000 yearly contract with the New York Yankees of the All-American conference.

Larry MacPhail, part owner of the Yankees, denied in New York that Young had been signed.

Top-Name Golfers Will Face Dearth Of Big Pay Meets

Six $10,000 invitational golf tournaments have been cancelled or face cancellation in the South because of failure of the Professional Golfers' association to guarantee appearances of top-name players.

Clubs at Memphis, Tenn., and Charlotte, N. C., have made outright cancellations, although Charlotte indicated it might reconsider if PGA Tournament Manager Fred Corcoran would produce the demanded guarantee.

Miami, Jacksonville, and St. Petersburg, Fla., and Greensboro, N. C., are considering abandoning tournament plans.

At Phoenix, Ariz., Corcoran said every effort would be made to have the top-bracket players on hand throughout the winter circuit. He specifically gave Greensboro and Jacksonville the assurance that they could expect golfdom's big names for their tourneys.

Among the name players he listed were PGA Champion Ben Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum, the U. S. Open titlist, Jimmy Demaret, fourth among the country's money winners, and Vic Ghezzi, former PGA champion.

Commenting on Charlotte's cancellation, the PGA tournament manager said that it was not feasible to arrange for appearance of the leading players there because the Charlotte tournament precedes by only one week the Augusta, Ga., Masters, and the players felt they needed more time before the Masters competition.

Rams Collide With Red Birds

Riding on the crest of a seven game winning streak, Mansfield Madison will be in search of its eighth victory tonight.

The Rams travel to Loudonville to play Coach Jimmy Hunter's Red Birds. Loudonville dropped a 50 to 22 verdict to Wooster last week while Madison defeated Lexington 43 to 32 and Union 53 to 33.

Eldon Pritchard, who is leading the Madison scoring with 96 points for an average of 10.6, is expected to top the 100 mark.

Herb Eldridge is trailing Pritchard with 85 points and might reach the century peak also. Coach Jeff DeHaven's main problem is stopping Red Bird forward Dick Foster.

Foster has netted the most Loudonville points despite a hand injury before the previous Rams-Red Bird tilt earlier in the 1946-47 season. Madison nipped Loudonville 42 to 18 in that game.

Reserve Coach Bill Kopcial will put his team on the floor against Hunter's reserve squad in the preliminary contest at 7:15.

Cleveland Barons Open Decisive 2 Week Stand.

The Cleveland Barons open two weeks of American Hockey league battling tonight which may well decide the circuit title.

Still tied with Indianapolis for first place honors in the western loop, the Barons will play six games within the space of 11 days, starting tonight against the lowly Rockets at Philadelphia.

Post-War Gambling Casts Baleful Shadow; States Consider Anti-Fixing Legislation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of four articles on the gambling "ills" in professional sports, a situation that is arousing concern all 'ithout the nation.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN, INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—The post-war gambling spree has cast a baleful shadow over what long has been regarded as one of the cleanest and finest things in modern life—American sportsmanship.

Today, in the nation's newspapers and over the radio you read and hear about gamblers either "fixing" or trying to "fix" major sports events, such as professional football contests, college basketball games or prize fights.

A sinister national scandal has sprung up, and no one seems to know how best to cope with the problem so as to stamp out the evil.

Young, clean-cut athletes who have just about reached the voting age are being tempted with "easy money" bribes by sordid, "sure-thing" gamblers who mulct the gullible public in an astouding manner.

Now and then a bit of the overall scandal comes to light, as in the recent case of Alvin J. Paris, the 28-year-old Broadway man-about-town who attempted to bribe star athletes to "throw" the professional football championship play-off game of Dec. 15 last between the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears.

Paris is at present in a cell in the Tombs, awaiting sentence next week for his activities in trying to entice Merle Hapes and Frank Filchock of the Giants to throw the game.

They say around gambling circles in New York that Paris was merely a small-time operator, and that the expose of his machinations will not lead to a comprehensive clean-up of big-time gamblers.

The authorities, however, not only in New York but elsewhere are striving to catch up with the "fix" scandals. For weeks they to "break" a real expose—but without apparent success.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at Gray's and all good drug stores.
Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money —Adv.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

OHIOAN ADMITS KILLING WOMAN

CIRCLEVILLE —(U.P.)— Harvey Julian, 27-year-old dairy worker, was held in the Pickaway county jail here today after admitting that he fatally shot his divorced wife because she had refused to return to him.

Pickaway county Sheriff Charles Radcliff said Julian surrendered two hours after the body of his 20-year-old wife, Eileen, was found lying by the Hitler-Ludwig road one mile east of here. Mrs. Julian had been shot in the back with a 22-caliber bullet.

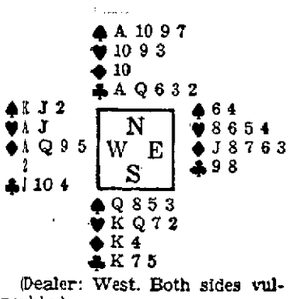
Sheriff Radcliff said Julian admitted beating his estranged wife on the head with the butt of a 22 rifle and then shooting her while she was lying on the road.

The body was found by two motorists, James Davis, 22, and clarence Peehn, 37, both of Circleville.

Barclay On Bridge

BIDDING a four-card suit topped by a bare probable No Trump stopper will every once in a while pay you an extra dividend. If your left-hand opponent eventually doubles you, it may be partly because he thinks a trump honor or honors in his hand will be sure to win because the others are counted as being in yours. When it develops then that the dummy has one or more higher honors over his, he is chagrined, and possibly sorry he doubled.

Take note of the single basic difference in that bidding, and the swing in points it produced in favor of the South player who bid his spades on his first turn. This deal was in a big pair duplicate in which nearly half of the pairs wound up with North in 4-Spades not doubled and most of the others with South in 4 Spades doubled by West. Naturally the doubled pairs divided the top score among them, whereas the non-doubled pairs shared bottom except for a couple of pairs that unsoundly reached unmakable 3-No Trumps contracts.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1. 1♦	2♣	Pass	2♥
Pass	2♠	Pass	4♠
2. 1♦	2♣	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♠	Pass	4♠

The best bidders in the game, who sat South, realized they had two four-card major suits to show, in order to probe for a fit, and that the cheapest and safest order for them was to call the higher-ranking spades first so that the lower hearts could be shown next. These players realized that the danger of any harm from the spade bid was virtually nil, since the Q was a probable stopper if the bid found North with additional diamond stoppers and therefore bid No Trumps.

Where South bid spades first, West expected to take two spade tricks, so doubled. But in no case did West double where North bid spades first. Naturally all made their contracts, losing one trick apiece in spades, hearts and diamonds.

Republican Whip Given Beribboned 8-Foot Bull Whip

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A beribboned eight-foot bull whip is the symbol of authority for Rep. Leslie M. Burge of Lorain county, whip of the Republican majority in the Ohio house of representatives.

The house roared as Burge received the gift in a formal presentation which referred to him as a "whip-snapper" and a "whipper-snapper." Burge, himself, was speechless with surprise.

His duties as Republican whip are to see that members are on hand to support party legislation.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY JANUARY 22 1947

After all, this is Ohio, you know, and you should expect an occasional touch of winter weather.

Just as people are "known by the company they keep," Georgia is now being judged by the behavior of some of its worst element.

The trouble Britain's Labor government is having in getting along with labor indicates that friends are sometimes more difficult to handle than enemies.

Ma. all Assured of Nation's Confidence

THE MOST spectacular part of General George C. Marshall's swearing-in as secretary of state actually occurred before the general got to the White House yesterday. When he arrived in Washington from Chicago he said: "I cannot be drafted for any political office. I am being explicit and emphatic in order to terminate once and for all any discussion of my name in regard to political office."

There is no reason to doubt the general's sincerity. Hence, his actions can be assumed to be guided by what he believes are for the best interests of nation rather than by any political self-seeking. That is a healthy situation. It serves notice on other nations that they are dealing with a man on the basis of what he is and not what he hopes to be.

Gen. Marshall comes into his new office with the almost unanimous confidence and good-will of the nation behind him. Even the Republican congress approves his selection by a Democratic president.

It now remains to be seen if the general can handle astutely such vexing problems as the recent terrorist elections in Poland which the United States plainly considers illegal or how to treat the government of Dictator Peron in Argentina.

In China, Marshall clearly demonstrated that he was able to analyze the trouble and to say what should be done for it. But it is the job of a secretary of state to get such things done rather than just point out the necessity for them.

Certainly all the good wishes of the nation go with Gen. Marshall as he takes up his gigantic task of attempting to secure permanent world peace. His experience and his forthright attitude should be great assets. But this is no time for the rest of the nation's leaders to sit back and say, "Don't worry. Our foreign affairs are in capable hands." Now as never before is the time for everyone to watch and to help the new secretary.

Back To Former Traffic Light System

DESIROUS at all times of encouraging youthful initiative, the News-Journal nevertheless feels that past experience, and mature judgment should play a part in decisions having to do with such matters as abrupt changes in the operation of a city's traffic lights.

This is brought to mind by yesterday's announcement by Traffic Commissioner Boals that there is to be immediate resumption of the "staggered" system of operating Mansfield's downtown traffic lights, after a six-months' trial of the "straight-through" system, which was put into effect last August as an "experiment."

Commenting on that change, a News-Journal editorial on August 29 said: "Just how much thought was given to the most recent change, which shows a green light for several blocks in one direction, has not been stated, but first impression is that this will tend to increase speed toward intersections rather than reduce it."

An editorial on the same subject in the September 17 issue of the News-Journal included the statement: "Purpose of the change was in the hope of expediting motor traffic during rush hours, but if expressed experience of many motorists is to be accepted as a criterion there has been an opposite effect, and a checkup of opinion indicates that the former system was better suited to Mansfield than the present one."

It appears that it is on recommendation of both Chief of Police Bates and Traffic Commissioner Boals that alternating system is being resumed, and one of the reasons given by Mr. Bates is particularly interesting, in view of the above excerpts from earlier editorials. It is this: "It proved to be dangerous when streets are icy, because drivers attempt to make several green lights in one burst of speed"—which was also the case when streets were not icy.

Hereafter when a new official hits upon an idea for a change that involves public convenience and safety it would seem advisable to present the subject for discussion before taking action—as such a blunder as last August's change in traffic light operation might have thus been avoided.

'Over the Top' For Friendly House

CONGRATULATIONS to the people of Mansfield! You have put over the drive for $60,000 as the public's share of the Friendly House building fund. You have done even better than that. This is being written before complete totals are in but already the sum of $62,775 has assuredly been reached.

Felicitations to the committee which put over the drive, too. But every member of that group appears to feel that it was really the public which did the job. The men and women employes in the city's factories made a fine showing. There were many special gifts of substantial size. There were small gifts that came from generous hearts and meager purses.

All this spells one thing. It means that Mansfield is sincerely aware of the great job that Friendly House is doing and has done for years under difficult circumstances. It is a heartening send-off for Mansfield's great "Operation Tomorrow," the long range plan for an outstanding social agency building program in the city.

Friendly Visits Mutually Helpful

A PICTURE in Business Week shows two business men in friendly conference, Sir George Nelson, board chairman of English Electric company, Ltd., and Frank M. Folsom, executive vice-president of R.C.A. Victor division. The former, prominent in the electronics industry in Great Britain, is visiting R.C.A. with the idea of getting acquainted with American workers in his line and observing methods of manufacturing and merchandising here. Among the first passengers to Europe when travel became possible were American business men with similar purpose in view.

Student-exchange, teacher-exchange and exchange of business men all have possibilities in increasing understanding and friendliness among nations.

It is claimed for the Japanese hooch made out of aviation gasoline that "one gulp and the drinker is higher than a kite."

MAYBE THEY'RE LOOKING TOO HARD

FBI Knew All About Intimidation Of Georgia Voters By Talmadge

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It was carefully hushed up at the time, but the political mess in Georgia might have been avoided if the justice department had gone ahead with a secret probe it conducted of the Talmadge election.

Last fall, the justice department had FBI men making a thorough check of Talmadge intimidation and racial discrimination at the polls. This, under recent supreme court rulings, now is the direct concern of the federal government and can be prosecuted as a criminal offense.

The FBI investigation showed that Talmadge had sent instructions to the Georgia primary polls aimed at preventing Negroes from voting. Although the evidence was conclusive, the justice department finally got cold feet. The case was dropped.

One obstacle the justice department ran up against was the fact that Eugene Talmadge was sick and they couldn't get to him for interrogation. Also son Herman Talmadge outbluffed the justice boys and refused to answer questions unless a stenographer was present.

Final factor, however, was the fear that federal government intervention in Georgia would boomerang, hurting the very same liberal forces the justice department wanted to help.

Marshall's War Leak.

One of the most significant things to watch regarding the state department under General Marshall will be whether he continues Jimmie Byrnes' policy of open diplomacy.

No secretary of state since Charles Evans Hughes has been as frank with the press as Byrnes. Hughes handled all press conferences himself, was a master at giving important background information, was generally frank and forthright. Byrnes, while not handling many conferences himself, went further than Hughes in making sure that a competent state department official gave newsmen a general picture of what was happening inside diplomatic negotiations.

Byrnes also didn't object to most news leaks; felt the American people had the right to know about foreign policy.

However, some of those allegedly close to General Marshall say he may tighten up on the Byrnes policy and crack down on news leaks. This, of course, may be unfair to the new secretary of state; for, based on his own past record, Marshall has been quite a "leaker" himself. In fact, one cable seized from the files of the German foreign office now reveals that General Marshall was woefully indiscreet in the early stages of the European war and inadvertantly let out important secrets to the enemy.

When the American army captured German files in Berlin, one of the most amazing cables they unearthed was sent by Nazi Counsel General Hans Borchers in New York, May 13, 1941, regarding a dinner-table conversation General Marshall had with a high American society woman. The cable read as follows:

"Mrs. Herbig told that she sat at a dinner between General Marshall and a member of the government and the possibilities of war in Europe were discussed and both stated that it was definite that Greenland, Iceland, and the Azores should be used as bases for troops in order to facilitate invasion of Norway, northern France Spain and Portugal. An attempt was being made to select qualified elements for a fifth column to Spain among prisoners and immigrants."

At that very same time, American newspapers were being bitterly condemned when some of them hinted that the United States was planning to use Iceland and the Azores as military bases.

A little later, when Maj. Gen. Henry Miller told a society lady in London about Allied plans for the Normandy invasion, he was promptly reduced to the rank of colonel and sent home from England.

Note—Mrs. Herbig is the code name for the Washington society woman who duped General Marshall. However, nothing has ever been done since the war about taking action against her.

Harmony Blows Away.

Those who sat in President Truman's recent meeting with the six congressional leaders—three Dems and three Reps—say that, while useful, it does not mean sweet harmony between the White House and GOP leaders on Capitol Hill.

Despite what you read in the newspapers, the bipartisan "Big Six" of both Democrats and Republicans will not function in any sense as did the Democratic Big Four, which conferred with the president once a week on legislative matters when the Democrats were in power. This practice would be continued if there is to be harmony and cooperation in a real sense.

However, it was mutually agreed to hold Big Six meetings "from time to time," at the call of the president, and then only on non-controversial, "unpartisan" subjects—as GOP Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan described it.

In other words, both sides are ready to cooperate, but at arms' length. There will be no scrapping of party lines on basic, legislative strategy. That was the underlying significance of the heralding White House-Big Six meeting, despite outward harmony.

Truman Advises Congress.

Main thing President Truman discussed at his first "Big Six" conference was streamlining congress. He expressed the hope that investigations will be conducted as much as possible by regular standing committees, instead of special committees, which, he said, was one objective of the congressional reorganization act passed last year.

"There's no sense in several committees investigating the same thing at the same time," Truman declared. "It's a waste of time and money, when one committee can do the job."

He suggested that senate and house leaders get together and decide on who should investigate what, so as not to tread on each other's toes and fill the record with duplicating testimony.

Truman didn't commit himself directly on extension of his old senate war investigating committee. Previously, however, he was quite blunt in discussing this with Democratic Senator Glenn Taylor of Idaho.

"When Senator Mead (N. Y.) became chairman of the committee," Truman explained, "I told him the committee should wind up its activities when the war ended. It was set up strictly as a wartime proposition and has done its job, in my opinion."

The president also told Taylor that he has two major objectives before leaving the White House. He said: "I hope to secure peace in the world and, secondly, I hope to put the nation's economy on a basis of full production and employment."

THAT row over the governorship of Georgia is just about the most exciting thing since the World series and the Rose Bowl battle. It must be hard down there to decide whether they have a governor or a daily double.

As the governor of Georgia said to the other governor of Georgia, "it's a long time between legal opinions."

* * *

I see where it has been discovered that for over four years Washington has been employing in an important office a man of communist connection and activities. And he was handling matters of strategic service and the collection and distribution of important information, too.

* * *

Half a hundred other employes now are being checked. Washington having gotten around to the general suspicion that it's been easier for commies to get important jobs down there than for 100 per cent Americans. It's funny how, before a real American gets a job, all the facts about him have to be known first.

The royal visitor has a delicious sense of humor. . . . He presented Mr. Truman with a sword and dagger. Harry already had a rope.

But the president is getting along fine with the Republicans. . . . He has a conference with Republican leaders every week and every time he shakes hands with them he gets all his fingers back.

One thing about the Republicans they're always fighting an up-hill battle. . . . In not one state where they won did they get more than one man in the governor's chair.

What Can Be Done to Get More Teachers?

WASHINGTON — From the point of view of the capital or the country as a whole, there can be little doubt that the nation is awakening to its school teacher shortage crisis—and to its far-reaching effects.

That becomes more evident every day in widespread newspaper editorials, in speeches and lectures, in letters to congressmen and in definite and unprecedented action on the part of some local school boards.

Here in Washington, that awakening is leading to what looks like definite federal aid legislation before the 80th congress is very old. But even if or when that comes, it cannot be more than a beginning toward solution of the problem of underpaid teachers and substandard schools.

Meanwhile, many communities—as represented by civic groups, women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, school boards, municipal officials and the like—are asking what they can do to improve the situation while awaiting such aid or to augment it when it comes.

Here are a few suggestions, emanating from educators such as National Education association officials and legislators such as those who have been working toward federal aid measures:

On a short time basis, community groups can—

1. Carefully scrutinize and revise local school budgets to make sure that reasonable proportions are allotted to instructional costs, particularly teachers' salaries.

2. Work for the raising of local tax millage rates or assessments to make the property tax more productive for schools.

3. Revise local high school board rules and contracts to remove all unnecessary personal restrictions and conditions which impede the employment and retention of competent teachers. (Such as insisting on teachers not marrying, and seeking to dictate their personal or social lives.)

4. Publicize these raises and rule revisions, and otherwise encourage competent and qualified former teachers to return to the profession. (More than half a million have quit it in five years.)

5. Encourage teacher participation in community and civic affairs even when involving political or controversial issues, and insist on their right to express individual opinions without jeopardizing their professional positions.

On a long time basis, such sincerely interested groups can—

1. Work with their state legislators to either increase the state tax bases or else set aside a larger proportion of state appropriations for school revenue. (Even if bridges, highways, public parks and penal institutions don't get quite as much!)

2. Trying to get those same legislators to adopt or revise—if some already exist—state tenure and retirement laws in order to protect the status of teachers. This might also include minimum-salary laws and provisions for leaves of absence.

3. Seek to impress on all civic and community groups the teacher's certainly reasonable right to live, think, talk and act as an ordinary, unregimented individual.

4. Above all, stress the importance of teachers today in moulding the minds of this growing generation of Americans . . . a generation of free men and women, we hope. . . . A generation completely sold on democracy, we hope. . . . A generation so much more intelligent and informed than any of its predecessors that it will be capable (we hope) of getting along with all its neighbors around the world, rather than participating in another conflict which now would mean the destruction of all mankind.

For that today is the teacher's terrific responsibility and recognition of it remains a requirement of the community. No amount of legislation, state or federal, can give it or take it away. It's up to you, as citizens.

So there you are. You have asked, in letters, what you could do. I have tried to lay it on the line, as best I could learn from the people who are supposed to know.

In short, we must pay our teachers enough that they can live like human beings. Then, we must let them live like human beings.

Finally, we must realize—and respect—the fact that the future of not only this generation, but all the generations to come, lies largely in the mind-moulding hands of the school teacher of today.

Collective Bargaining Sometimes Succeeds.

WASHINGTON — Management and labor still do sit around the table and work out wage and other problems, without resort to strikes that make headlines. This, despite an impression to the contrary now widely circulated, and often exaggerated, for the purposes of legislation in congress.

It is demonstrated, of course, in records of the labor department conciliation service. But those are cold statistics which the reader often is prone to pass over.

When it happens in a specific industry it has more meaning, as for example, textiles

Within the last month three big branches of the textile industry have granted wage increases of $55 million a year covering more than 200,000 workers, in negotiations with the CIO Textile Workers Union of America, and all without the loss of a single man-hour or work and without resort even to arbitration.

These include 90,000 cotton workers, who got 10 cents an hour increase; 90,000 woolen and worsted workers, who got 15 cents an hour rise; 18,000 workers in the American Viscose's seven plants in Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, who got 13½ cents an hour average increase, and Celanese Corporation of America's Cumberland, Md., plant, with 13 cents an hour general increase.

These increases, which will bring textile workers closer into line with those in other industries, still do not make them plutocrats, as some would have it. With the new increases, the second since VJ-day, the hourly straight-time wages average $40.80 for a 40-hour week in northern cotton; $46.40 a week in woolen and worsted, and $50.20 a week in synthetic yarns.

Commenting on this strikeless experience in negotiating wage increases, Emil Rieve, general president of the union, said:

"Wage increases in the textile industry in the past year prove one thing dramatically. That is when there is mutual understanding of the problems of the worker and of management, and when there is a deep-rooted determination to make collective bargaining work, it works.

"It is a matter of considerable pride with us—and with textile managements, too, if anybody should pause to ask them—that we were able, during the past year, not only to avoid strikes while we were negotiating wage increases for textile workers but also to avoid, in the recent increases, even the necessity of going to arbitration."

This is, largely, experience in the North. The difficulty is in the Deep South, where many mill owners are fighting back vigorously, both against the CIO organizing campaign and against increases where unions already have contracts.

In their southern contracts, too, the CIO has had far less success in getting wage-arbitration clauses. They have such clauses in only about 20 per cent of their contracts, fewer than before the war.

Mr. Rieve did not mention it, but southern mill owners still holding out received much encouragement in the triumph of Bilboism and Talmadgeism in last summer's primaries, though this, of course, may be only temporary depending upon whether Senator Bilbo is ousted and Herman Talmadge is uprooted from the governorship of Georgia.

The racial issue is exploited by such figures to divide the poorer whites and Negroes, and thus serves the purposes of entrenched interests in the South that are fighting unionism.

Anybody who knows the South knows that this is the real issue behind all the comic opera going on in Georgia.

Budget Cuts Will Reveal Republican Strategy.

WASHINGTON — The theme song in the White House is "Hearts and Flowers." The only detail lacking when the Republican leaders visited the president was a few rose petals to strew in the path of the smiling visitors.

This is definitely the honeymoon. How long it will last is quite another matter.

The Republicans have bumped up against the facts of life. The paean of triumph with which this session of congress began has subsided. As a matter of fact, the reaction seems to be a sound one.

For one thing, unreconstructed pre-McKinley Republicans of the stamp of Representative Harold Knutson have been told to take a back seat.

At the beginning of the session, Knutson talked as though he would fix policy with a 20 per cent cut in income taxes and abolition of the wartime excise taxes. Conscientious men with convictions that are not grounded in the remote past — Representatives Wadsworth and Herter of New York—have been placed on the house rules committee.

Just how much this means, events in the future will show. Mr. Truman is reported to believe that everything is rosy. He has some justification for his belief. But if he is counting on the honeymoon continuing for an indefinite period, he is likely to be disillusioned.

When it comes to slashing the president's budgetary requests, there are two keyspots to watch. More than anything else they will show Republican intentions.

The first, and most significant, is the appropriation for the national labor relations board. Republican leaders have indicated they would not revise the Wagner Act at this session; they would thus refrain from taking the step that organized labor most fears.

But there is more than one way to alter the intention and effectiveness of a law. One method is by paring down the funds necessary to administer it. This method has proved highly effective in the past.

For the current fiscal year, the labor board asked for $4,746,900. Congress appropriated $4,069,500, which represented a cut of 15 per cent. As a result of that cut, it was necessary to reduce the personnel of the board by 23 per cent.

For the fiscal year that begins on June 30, the board has asked congress for $7,984,000. That looks like a big jump. But the fact is that the board, with its present personnel, has been snowed under by an ever-increasing number of cases. Last year the NLRB had 12,000 cases and carried over a number that could not be completed because there wasn't time.

In the current year, the board will get 17,000 to 18,000 cases. This reflects the organizing drive of AFL and CIO in the South.

If the appropriation is cut drastically, the work of the board will bog down in disorder and confusion. That is one way to change the law.

But it is a way likely to penalize not merely the unions but industry too. A better way would be to revise the law honestly and directly.

The second focal point to watch for appropriation cuts is the anti-trust division of the department of justice. Talk about keeping the free enterprise system free is cheap. Whether that talk is backed up with funds to check the encroachment of monopoly on the free enterprise system is another matter.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WINTER HIDEOUT.

ON several different mornings, just at dawn, I watched from our kitchen window when a lordly cock pheasant strolled up through the young orchard and disappeared into the roadside hedge. I marked the spot, with my eye, and resolved to go over and find his hiding place. But though I walked the full length of the southern side, searching out every shadowy spot, and returned looking down through the brush of the roadside bank, there was no sign of him—only a flock of English sparrows, a downy woodpecker and a blinking barn owl perched on a twisted arch of bittersweet.

Snow fell in the afternoon and during the night—a light moist snow. The following morning, I saw him again, and watched him curve his course and enter the hedge at the very same spot.

I waited until I thought he was settled, then followed his fresh trail through the orchard. One large foot set down exactly ahead of the other. The tracks continued eastward through the brush, then turned abruptly north, across the road, up the steep bank and through tall aster stems and sharp brambles.

The trail led to an old apple trunk that was dead for several years, and had fallen parallel to the ridge of the old apple row, but slightly below it. A small opening through the fine powdery rot where the roots once spread out like wheel spokes betrayed the secret of the beautiful bird.

I went no closer. Through all the season of keen-scented dogs and hunters with cocked guns, he had outwitted his pursuers. I hoped he would not fear my presence and never return to his secure hiding place.

Walking along the trunk, I noticed where raw gravelly dirt had been brought up from the subsoil during early fall. The heap was almost concealed by a heavy fork filled with drifted leaves. A groundhog had made the burrow and the tree had fallen on top. Now the only entrance was by way of the improvised tunnel beneath the snag.

As I went back home to replenish the fires in furnace and kitchen range, I speculated on what I would be apt to find, should I dig into that burrow with pick and shovel.

I venture the guess there would be a woodchuck curled up on a shelf of earth strewn with sticks and grass, perhaps an opossum or two some distance this way, a rabbit and last of all the pheasant I had seen taking his morning walk.

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength with should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health. —Adv.

REDDY FEELS BETTER

"That was my fish," barked Reddy Fox as he watched King Eagle.

"Was, but isn't," replied King Eagle as he pulled the fish apart and ate it. "It is too bad to take a dinner away from you, but I needed it," he added.

"No more than I did and do. You robbed me of it," barked Reddy.

"You robbed Billy Mink of it," retorted King Eagle.

Reddy grinned for he is a good loser. "And I suppose the fish would say that Billy Mink robbed him," said he.

"Of what?" asked King Eagle.

"His life," replied Reddy. He grinned again and trotted off. He didn't hold it against King Eagle that the latter had taken that fish. Billy Mink really had nothing against Reddy Fox. King Eagle didn't consider that he had wronged any one. The law of opportunity is the law of the Green Forest and Green Meadows and all who live in them live by that law. To live the furred and feathered folk must take what they need when they can get it, and there is no wrong in this. But need is the difference between right and wrong. King Eagle saw no wrong in taking that fish for his need was great. Had he not been hungry, very hungry he wouldn't have thought of taking it. Nor would Reddy have thought of interfering with Billy Mink but for the great need of food which was his. The losers each felt that they should have been too smart to have lost that fish, and so there were no really hard feelings. It is usually just so among all Mother Nature's children.

Crossing the Green Meadows, now bare of snow, Reddy entered the Green Forest where the snow still lay deep in sheltered places. He caught a glimpse of Jumper the Hare, but wisely did not chase him. That would have been a waste of time and he knew it. "I'll catch him by surprise one of these days," muttered Reddy, and thought no more about him.

Nor did he try to catch Chatterer the Red Squirrel who provokingly dared him to try, coming down the trunk of a tree head first almost to the ground and almost within jumping distance. He called Reddy names, scolded him, made fun of him, but all to no purpose. Reddy paid no attention to him. That is how it seemed anyway. But had Chatterer carelessly ventured a step beyond the line of safety Reddy would have had a dinner much to his liking.

"Some day he'll be careless and then he'll be sorry. I can wait," thought Reddy.

He caught a foolish young Mouse. It was hardly a mouthful, but it was wonderful how much better he felt after swallowing it. He quite forgot the fish he had lost. A little farther on he saw Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse, and he saw that they saw him. No use to try to catch them, so he made no attempt to keep from being seen. He sat down a little way from them. You wouldn't call them friends, those three, just old acquaintances. Many times those black paws of Reddy's just missed coming down on one or the other of those two, yet they did not hold it against him. Not at all. It was all in the great game of life.

"Hello, smart fellow" said Thunderer.

"Smart fellow yourself," grinned Reddy. "Some day I will catch you."

"Then you will be a smart fellow," chuckled Thunderer, and Mrs. Grouse nodded.

"Where are the young folks?" asked Reddy, not expecting to be told. Of course he meant the children of Thunderer and Mrs. Grouse, babies in the spring but grown up now, as big but not as wise as their parents.

Before Thunderer could reply Reddy saw something brown in the snow back of Mrs. Grouse and moved toward it. With a whir of stout wings the two Grouse flew up in a tree. Reddy didn't even look at himself. Half buried in the snow was one of the young Grouse. He didn't move. He never would move again. Something had happened to him, an accident or sickness. Reddy didn't know which, but it didn't matter. Here was a dinner. He picked up the Grouse and started for the Old Pasture and Mrs. Reddy. He felt better with every step.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

No Business Like Show Business—"Variety" is a little newspaper that costs 25 cents a copy and comes out every Wednesday. Hoofers in peg-top trousers and high-buttoned shoes standing outside the Palace used to read its fine print in the late afternoon sunshine of Times sq. 30 years ago, and now their counterparts, in Sulka ties held down by chains of gold, turn its pages under the sheltering eaves of Lindy's. Variety is a talisman on Broadway. You see it tossed on a chair in Helen Hayes' dressing room, left in a phone booth at the Dixie, dropped in the butter at Shubert Alley, lying on the counter of the Plymouth's box office. It spells show business to those who love show business. Its ink smells of New York and its slangy headlines are a kind of Broadway jazz.

You rarely see it in Kokomo.

* * *

The issue on my desk as I write this is so big I have to have two little boys hold it as I turn the pages. This is an anniversary number—the 41st—and as always it is fat with show business ads and literary contributions ranging from the dead serious to the broadly comic. It contains opinions, predictions, anecdotes, jokes—all of them about my favorite street and its branch office—Hollywood.

* * *

For instance, Bing Crosby tells a story:

Two hoofers, after 30 years of hard work, made the Palace, and after opening day they just about fractured themselves doing every kind of wing and difficult step in their repertoire to score a solid hit. They finally staggered off the stage exhausted, sweaty; they just managed to make the wings before the applause died away. Couldn't even milk 'em for one bow. As they stood in the wings, Ethel Barrymore went on in a short piece called "The Five Pound Look." They stood and watched as the elegant Miss Barrymore intoned in sonorous accents the mellifluous measures of the piece ending in the famous line, "That's all there is, there isn't any more."

Well, the theater fell in—the audience applauded for 15 minutes. She took bow after bow. Finally she swept to her dressing room, leaving the audience still clamoring for more. One of the hoofers turned to the other, and said, "Mac, that's the kind of hoke we're going to give them next season."

* * *

Here's what Jake Wilk, eastern production head of Warner Brothers, has to say about the talented and hopeful young men and women who are struggling to inject "new blood" — meaning themselves—into the theater:

"Success stories represent a minority so small it would make last November's Democratic vote look like a landslide. And as for talent, the way things are set up now it has nothing whatsoever to do with getting a first break in the show business.

"Getting that break today depends on possessing the salesmanship of a bucket-shop operator, the hide of an elephant with chronic calluses, the push of a snow-plough, and the general perseverance of a fly butting its head against a windowpane for three days, figuring it will get through if only it tries hard enough.

"Unfortunately, those qualities aren't invariably associated with talent; and the result is that a good number of those who get their first break have nowhere near the real talent possessed by the blushing violets."

Visiting Red Cross officials present were John Rolfes, general field director, Glen Reynolds, assistant field director of eastern area; Miss Miriam Hooper, of southwest district, and Samuel Manning, Veterans' Administration representative of Marion.
